

Water

Water is critical to the survival of all living organisms.

Some organisms can thrive on salt water, but majority of higher plants and most insects, amphibians, reptiles, mammals and birds need fresh water to survive.

